

I absolutely, no doubt consider even my own banks calling me to market deals, promotions, etc to be an invasion of my privacy. This is no different than any other telemarketer. I actually resent it even more since a company I have agreed to do business with and trust is actually soliciting me for other business without my request.

Using the telephone for soliciting is totally different in my view than mail, newspaper, tv, etc.